

RANDOM BARNYARD WISDOM

© Lauran Paine Jr.

If you stop learning, stop flying.

A propeller is a loaded gun.

Wet grass will increase your ground roll right into the next county.

To keep your blue jeans 'manly,' hide them so they won't be found and washed.

Regarding thunderstorms, there are three words you need to know: avoid, avoid, avoid.

Sacrifice increases appreciation.

Haste is the leading cause of oversight.

Style goes out of style. Class doesn't.

The trouble with politics is that spin is made to be more important than truth.

When your wife needs you to listen....listen.

Remember: a forecast is a guess.

On taxi, horsepower is seldom a match for a tie down chain left tied.

When the throttle goes forward the mind should be clear.

A decision to hold your bladder will be met by a headwind.

Big problems often were once little.

Character solves more problems than money.

Create a life of honor. Do not live a life on envy.

The most important limitations you need to know are your own.

America became great because of high productivity, not high taxes.

If you're wearing something that has to be dry-cleaned, you're dressed up.

If you are bored flying, your standards are too low.

Peace is more a result of prosperity than politics.

What's right with America can be found in small towns and small airports.

Rx for feeling good: time, an old hangar, and old airplane, and a light warm rain falling.

Happiness is family watching a sunset over a mountain lake.